WELCOME TO OUR STRUCTURES EDITION

Whether it's a roaring blast furnace or a tiny flag-stop station, every structure along your railroads tells a story all its own. Like the supporting cast in a play, grimy factories, busy farms, neat homes, favorite restaurants and more all combine to set the scene along the right-of-way.

With a special look at structures, our May/June Flyer brings you all kinds of ideas for turning empty layout spaces into detailed scenes.

Be sure to check out the showcase from Noch, to create an entire scene from start-to-finish combining a structure and add-on details. More ideas and information can be found in the special listing of Busch products. Walthers Brand Spotlight shines on some of the newest additions to the HO and N Scale selection of Cornerstone® kits.

COVER STORY: Distant rolls of thunder and an air horn cut through the humid morning. It's shaping up to be one of those summer days when you can almost hear the corn growing. Heat waves dance above the rails, and the sharp tang of creosote fills the air. While the rain might slow things down for local farmers, the same can't be said of the railroad. No matter the season or the weather, empties have to be picked up and loads spotted for customers big and small. This close-up shows just some of the outstanding work of Brandon Lepley, who transformed the HO Cornerstone Sunrise Feed Mill (933-3061) into the centerpiece of his National Model Railroad Build-Off Contest entry. Brandon's superb painting and weathering, and the addition of a few key details, resulted in an amazing transformation of the basic kit. With hundreds of buildings big and small, Cornerstone structure kits are the perfect starting point for your own scenes. Read more - and see some of the newest releases - starting on page 10!
